carries it by its middle or under his arm, or he walks on the middle terrace after chapel, or he innocently wears his "blue" open when it is hot, or turns his trousers up when it is wet, and again he is swaggering. Lady visitors sometimes think small boys at Harrow rude. It is not rudeness which leads boys to stick close to the wall, even when coming up covered with mud from football, and shoulder the world into the gutter; it is modesty: to walk in the mud is swigger. To loiter at the house door, or to sing or whistle in the passages, or to wear a hat in the house are also forms of swigger. A whole corps of swigger rules exist in the matter of dress.

In some houses "stick-ups" go with "tail" at once; in others they come in with the second term in tails; in others only those who have been three years in the house, or who are "caps" or "fuzzes" (i.e., in the house cricket or football eleven), may wear "stick-ups." And then there are subsidiary rules about the brand of collar known as "chokers."

Harrow slang, as is well known, is based principally upon substituting the syllable "er" for the termination of words. Thus, the recreation ground becomes "recker," the electric light "lecker," football "footer," a blue flannel coat "bluer," speech-room "specher," the duck-puddle "ducker," and so on.

There is ample justification for including Merchant Taylors' School in this volume, though it differs from the others in being a day school only, and in the absence of endowment. It was founded in 1561 by the Company of Merchant Taylors for "poor men's sonnes," in that respect resembling many of the now famous colleges at Oxford and Cambridge.

In its initiation, too, it was on a larger scale than any other school up to that date. William of Wykeham's college, at Winchester, was for 70 scholars. Henry VI. founded Eton for 25. Dean Colet founded St. Paul's School for 153, and Queen Elizabeth re-founded St. Peter's College, Westminster, for 40 scholars. But the Merchant Taylors started their school for 250 boys. Unlike Winchester and Charterhouse, where the scholars and gown boys were to be clothed, fed, boarded, and taught gratuitously, the Merchant Taylors' statutes provided that they should be "no meate nor drink, nor bottles nor breakfasts in the time of learning." However, the head master was to be "learned in good and cleane Latin literature, and also in Greeke if such may be gotten." Edmund Spenser was one of the first scholars of Merchant Taylors, and during the sixteenth and seventeenth centuries it produced bishops in surprising number, including Jaxon, who attended Charles I. on the scaffold. Robert Clive, one of England's greatest men of action, was at Merchant Taylors' school from 1737 to 1739. There also studied

Dr. Byrom, the wit, author of that brilliant impromptu—

"God bless the King—I mean the Faith's Defender;
God bless (no harm in blessing) the Pretender.

But who Pretender is and who is King—God bless us all! is quite another thing. Space is lacking to follow the author through his round of the great schools; it is hardly necessary, indeed, to accompany him to Eton or Rugby, since there has been more and better matter written of these famous institutions than of any of their rivals. One pertinent observation Mr. Minchin makes, however, to the effect that the exclusive interest to Americans used to take in Rugby (from their rendering of "Tom Brown's School-days") is now extended to Eton. W. W. Astor, son of an American, was the greatest among "wet-bells"—i.e., Captain of the Boats at Eton in 1898—a proof, says the author, that "the relations between Great Britain and the Great Republic are not what they used to be."

HONGKONG, THURSDAY, NOVEMBER 7, 1901.

EDITORIAL COMMENT.

As each fleeting year AUSTRALIAN succeeds its predecessor MEAT, sor, with still another FOR HONGKONG, rise to record in the cost of the necessities of life, the food supply of the Colony becomes a subject which is more and more a matter of anxiety to residents. The question became so acute that last year, in response to a numerous signed petition, His Excellency the Governor was stirred to action. He appointed Dr Hartigan and Messrs E. Osborne, A. M. Marshall, P. Maitland, Fung Wa Chün and the late J. J. Francis, K.C. (Chairman), as a Food Supply Commission to inquire into the grievances of the community in this respect.

After an exhaustive inquiry, the Commission prepared a report detailing the causes and suggesting remedies. This useful report was forwarded to Government, on the 18th of December last year, was 'laid on the table,' and like many another report relegated to obscurity. There was no practical result, no alleviation of the public grievances. The public, who were led to believe that a great change was to be made, that compradores, butchers and fish-dealers and the like were to be brought under the official thumb in the matter of their charges, and, in fact, that, so far as the local food supply was concerned, life was to be made more tolerable, have been sorely disappointed, for nothing has resulted officially and prices continue to 'improve' at the cost of the buyer. In the report compiled by the members of the Food Commission the following paragraph affords food for reflection:

'Whilst it is difficult by means of direct evidence to prove that a combination exists with the object of keeping up the price of meat, the fact that practically the whole supply is in the hands of two men, who acknowledge being supported by a syndicate, and from whom other market butchers buy, must tend to crush other individual effort and enterprise, give them a monopoly, and enable them to regulate prices as they please. The fact also that the two individuals put forward as owners of this large business in a trade which has a world-wide reputation for being most lucrative, swore they have been losing money in it during three consecutive years, and that during the whole course of their examination they were manifestly prevaricating and conceding the truth, makes all evidence on this point most unreliable.'

It is clearly evident from the above that a 'corner' or monopoly exists in the butcher meat business, and there is, therefore, no saying where prices will stop. While on this subject, we may say that Messrs Butterfield and Swire and Jardine, Matheson and Co. have joined hands in an enterprise which ought to go far, if not to break down the monopolies that do exist in the supply of food stuffs, to at least reduce the prices of local perishables, which is the more crying evil. People who have occasion to pass along, Ice House Street, will notice that workmen are busy fitting up a small godown, having about its doorway the sign in bold lettering 'Frozen Food Supply Depot.' This, we believe, the small beginning of a large scheme to supply the Colony, on order, with frozen food imported in refrigerators from Australia—a country famous the world over for the exportation of frozen meat, butter, fish, etc.

The sapling has been planted next to the Ice Company's Depot, and under such auspices and nurtured and fertilized by a grateful public, it should not fail to develop rapidly into a massive tree, meeting a much-felt want, spreading its branches and furnishing its fruits to all parts of the Colony. We hear that the enterprise is not to be devoted solely to the supply of meat, but that other food-stuffs, such as it has only been the good fortune of a favoured few to enjoy, will be imported. Mr Parlman, manager of the Ice Company, is in charge of the venture, and the conditions under which goods are to be supplied will no doubt be made public at a later stage. We wish the Frozen Food Supply Depot all success as a boon and a blessing to a sorry-tried community, which has suffered long from the dollar-grabbing Chinese monopolist.

The following appointment has been made at the Admiralty:—Lieutenant A.P. Scofield, to the Tanager, as first lieutenant, to date July 29.

Lieutenant-Colonel Sir George Warrender, sixth Baronet, late of the Coldstream Guards, of 87, Eaton-square and Bruntsfield House, Edinburgh, who died on June 13, aged 75, left personal estate in England and Scotland of the value of £391,507, and other property abroad to the value of £456,138.

In the London Bankruptcy Court the first meeting of creditors of Miss Ethel Meadlock, portrait painter, was held. She returns her liabilities at about £1,000, and her assets at £2,000, consisting of £1,000 each duo from the Shah of Persia and Li Hung-chang, for painting their portraits, to inability to recover which she attributed her insolvency.

The China Expedition.

A telegram has been sent by the Government of India to the Secretary of State enquiring whether a medal is to be granted for the China operations; and if so when the Government of India may expect to learn particulars.

Forbidding the Banns.

A remarkable announcement, signed by Lady Edith Cecil, was published in the Belfast newspapers on the 28th September under the title 'Public Notices,' forbidding the marriage between Lieutenant Cecil, second son of Lady Francis Cecil, and Miss Bain. Lady Edith Cecil is a daughter of the late Sir William Cynliffe Brooks, Bart. She was married in 1874 to Lord Francis Home Pierrepont Cecil, Lieutenant, R.N., who died in 1889. In 1892 her ladyship was married to Captain P.F. Tildard, R.N., of Stocken Hall, Oakham. The young gentleman referred to is the second son of the late Lord Francis Cecil. The young lady, who is perhaps a couple of years Mr Cecil's senior, is regarded as one of the handsomest girls in Belfast. Her father, Mr John Bain, is a gentleman moving in the best circles, and is highly respected by every merchant in the city of Belfast.

Alleged Fraud on Hongkong Bank.

A Rangoon telegram dated 18th ult. says:—The Agent of the local branch of Hongkong and Shanghai Bank applied for a warrant for the arrest of one Benjamin, a Jew, for cheating. According to the information given to the Police, the accused had induced the Bank to advance him 250 dollars by showing the Agent a letter purporting to come from Messrs McAllister and Co., Penang, stating that this sum had been paid into his credit with them. The letter explained that the firm had not forwarded the money, as they were uncertain about his movements; but that should be in need of funds he would be able to get an advance from a Bank by showing their letter. The Bank advanced Benjamin 250 dollars, and he went to Calcutta, which he had informed the Bank he intended to do. The note drawn up by the accused together with the letter from Messrs McAllister and Co. were sent to the Penang branch of the Hongkong Bank for collection, and a wire was received lately stating that the letter was a forgery. The Calcutta Police were communicated with and the accused has been arrested.

LOCAL AND GENERAL.

Hongkong Boat Club.

A general meeting of the Hongkong Boat Club was held at the Cricket Club Pavilion last night, when the following officers were elected:—Chairman, Hon. J. H. Stewart Lockhart, C.M.G.; Vice-Chairman, Mr Basil Taylor; Hon. Secretary and Treasurer, Mr C. H. Gale; General Committee, Messrs A. Ellis, H. Skott, J. Danby, H. Kennett, G. Pappier and E. Carpenter; Balloting Committee, Messrs G. M. Young, H. Hunscombe, E. Katsch, T. Wild, F. C. Barlow and Major Watson.

Rear-Admiral Grenfell.

A portrait of Rear-Admiral Harry T. Grenfell, who has just been appointed to succeed Sir James Bruce as second in command in China, appears in Navy and Army Illustrated. That paper says he is an excellent man for this important post. His geniality and force of character are well known. As captain of the Benbow he plunged overboard to save a boy in danger of drowning. He is an accomplished master of the foil, and skilled in the use of the gloves. In the Orient troubles he showed such capacity and firmness in dealing with Turks and Greeks that he received 'the sobriquet of the King of Candia.' He has served in many parts of the world, and his strong qualities should be very useful in China.

Royal Marine Memorial.

The committee of the Royal Marine Memorial Fund has commissioned Mr Adrian Jones to execute a monument to the memory of the Marines who fell in China and in South Africa. Mr Jones has finished a clay model of the memorial, which represents two Royal Marines, one lying on the ground wounded, while the other, erect and determined, faces the enemy with fixed bayonet. On the sides of the pedestal will be displayed the regimental badge and motto and the names of the fallen heroes, while at each corner a dolphin will be placed. It is hoped that a suitable site near the Admiralty will be allotted for the memorial.

A Judge on Lawyers.

In a very interesting notice of Mr Commissioner Kerr, who, after forty-two years' service as judge of the City of London Court, has retired on pension, The Times says:—Perhaps some of the learned Judge's characteristic obiter dicta may be added to this short account. Only recently he said to a suitor:—'Never go to law under any consideration whatever. You had much better lose your money than go to law. As a rule it only puts money into the pockets of the lawyers—the very worst possible way in which money can be spent.'

He is also reported to have said:—'Always put your bargains into writing. Pens, are cheap, ink is cheap, and paper is cheap. People contradict each other so much that by-and-by every commercial transaction will have to be reduced to writing. When you go to buy a penny loaf even, you will have to take an order for it in writing to prevent a contradiction arising.' 'The moment that you, a foreigner, land at Dover you are supposed to know the whole law of England—which nobody I know ever knew.'

'King David said in his haste "All men are liars." If he had been sitting here for forty years as I have done, he would have said it in his leisure.' The list may well close with a piece of valuable advice to those about to litigate:—'If you have a good case you are safe with a Judge. If you have a bad one you always have a chance with a jury.'

The First British Submarine.

The first submarine boat built for his Majesty's Navy was launched from the yard of Vickers, Sons, and Maxim at Barrow on the 2nd October. She is the first of five similar craft of the Holland type, built at the Barrow yard. The launching ceremony was kept as private as possible, and the new boat received neither a name nor a number. She showed great buoyancy. She was towed into the Devonport dock to be completed, and is there under the guard of the Harrier, t.g.b., Capt. Bacon. Her dimensions are 65ft. long and 11ft. 9in. beam. She is specially designed on lines to minimize resistance when cruising on the surface, where she will be propelled by a gasoline type of main engine capable of maintaining a maximum speed of about nine knots on a run of about 400 knots. When she is submerged an electric main motor will give a speed of seven knots for a four hours' run. This motor will be worked by means of storage batteries, for the charging of which gearing is provided. The vessel is lighted by portable incandescent electric lamps. Stored compressed air supply and ventilation, and the gasoline vapours from the engine will be carefully excluded by suitable arrangements. Steering and diving can be regulated either by mechanical or hand appliances. The submarine will undergo experimental trials in waters near Barrow in the course of a few weeks. The other four boats are in a forward state, and will be launched this year.

Military Officers and their Passages.

A Calcutta telegram, dated 29th October, says:—The Secretary of State has decided that Military officers ordered out on public grounds, whether on active service in the field or on station duty, must be provided with passages unless their leave has nearly expired.

A Table of Orders, etc.

A table of the orders and rules of the Supreme Court of Judicature in England corresponding with the sections and sub-sections of The Hongkong Code of Civil Procedure has just been compiled by Mr Leo D'Almada e Castro, of the Supreme Court here. By reference to this table, any judge or local practitioner can, at a glance, ascertain corresponding home orders and rules. The table is printed in chronological order, and by its handy size, it forms a useful appendix to the Code.

A Lord Morris Story.

The following story of the late Lord Morris is taken from the Law Times:—In the early period of his career he had been Recorder of Galway. When he had taken silk and was in leading business at the Bar, the interruptions in his work necessitated by going down to Galway to hold his sessions when the Courts in Dublin were in full swing, lost him briefs and gave him a strong motive for hurrying back to Dublin. He was on one occasion hearing the last case in his list, which was a dispute with reference to a few shillings. The case, however, was argued at great length and with extraordinary heat by opposing solicitors. Within a few minutes the Dublin train was timed to start. The Recorder looked at his watch, but the wrangle did not seem to be approaching its conclusion. At last he said, 'See here, gentlemen, I must catch the train. Here is the sum in dispute, throwing down the silver on the table as he vanished from the Court.

Sailors' Superstitions.

Nothing is ever likely to shake the naval superstition that ships named after things that sting are doomed to loss. Besides the Viper and the Cobra, the Serpent was wrecked with nearly all her crew, the Wasp was wrecked with heavy loss off Tory Island, and a second Wasp, a gunboat, disappeared in a typhoon, never to be heard of again. In consequence of the double disaster of ships named Wasp that name has been struck out of the Admiralty list of available names. In the past we have lost a Battle-slayer, Caddy, and Hornet. Probably a new Viper and a new Cobra will be built, but should anything happen to either of them the name of the other is almost certain to be changed by the authorities in deference to the sentiment that prevails abroad concerning unlucky names. The only exception that remains is the Resolution. The present ship is the tenth. No fewer than eight of them have had tragic fates, and the present one some years since very nearly met disaster at sea. Most of the old Resolutions, however, earned glory first in battle, hence the perpetuation of the name.

IMPORTANT FINANCIAL CHANGES IN CEYLON.

The following paragraphs are taken from the Times of Ceylon of the 24th October:—We are in a position to announce that the sovereign is to be 'immediately made legal tender in Ceylon, at the rate of Rs. 5. This will bring the Colony into line with India, and will enable the Ceylon Government—when the necessary amending Ordinance has been passed—to hold any portion of the currency reserve in sovereigns instead of in the more cumbersome rupees. These would thus be free to pass into circulation. It will thus be seen that the step has important financial bearings. Though it may not have much influence in the direction of stiffening exchange, it should be of considerable consequence to passengers, who will thus be able to demand a fixed rate of exchange for their foreign gold, and to those residents who prefer to carry a sovereign or two instead of soiled notes.

We also have the pleasure to announce that an Ordinance will shortly be introduced into Council to facilitate the investment of Trust and other funds in the United Kingdom in Ceylon Government securities. Negotiations have been proceeding for some months with this object to bring our securities into line with the requirements of the Colonial Stocks Act, and as soon as this is done they will be available to home trustees. This should result in Ceylon 3 per cent, for example, rising one point, or even two in the London money market, and if the legislation can be effected before the Crown Agents have to call for tenders for the loan already sanctioned, they will be able to quote a rather higher minimum figure—a gain to the Colony of a large sum of money.

SIR MICHAEL HICKS-BEACH ON THE WAR IN SOUTH AFRICA.
London, 5th November, 1901.

Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, Chancellor of the Exchequer, speaking at Bristol, said that he was convinced the income-tax payers paid willingly, because they were patriotic. He wished that he could say the terrible war in South Africa had come to an end, but this he could not do, and he might possibly have to ask later for increased taxation.

THE FRANCO-TURKISH DIFFICULTY.

It is reported in Paris that Admiral Caillard, with the French fleet, has arrived at Smyrna, Asia Minor, where he has seized the Turkish Customs.

The German press views with intense dissatisfaction the determination of France to bring the Sultan to reason.

CRICKET.

H.K.C.C. XII. v. HUNT. WOOD'S R.N. XII.
The final test match preparatory to the interport matches was played on the Cricket Ground to-day. The sailors batted first, but could make no stand against the Club bowlers, who all came out with good analyses. With only a score of 72 to beat, the Club opened confidently with Hancock and Burnie, and at half-past three o'clock the Club score stood at 131. H. E. the Governor was among the spectators.
